HISTORY:

Alex Connley aka Flameshot's history is a tale of abuse and anger. Alex was brought up in a household of chaos. Mother and father both being heroin addicts, Alex learned at an early age how to fend for himself. Disgusted with his family situation, Alex fled his home at the age of 13 and ran to LA. Living on the streets of LA was not easy, but Alex survived by conning locals and stealing what he needed to stay alive. Alex's luck would change when he picked the pocket of the high ranking crime boss Anthony Sarducci. Rather than punishing Alex, Sarducci admired his bravery and became a mentor and father figure. Under Sarducci's tutelage, Alex became not only a master criminal but highly skilled with a variety of weapons. Alex became known and feared in the underground crime scene. His life would take another unexpected turn when he discovered Sarducci was secretly running a Child trafficking ring, which used runaway kids for secret experiments. Unnerved by his findings, Alex confronted his mentor, who revealed that Alex was also a victim of these secret experiments. After exposing this information, Sarducci pulled out his gun in an attempt to kill Alex. In a state of heightened emotions and fear, Alex manifested flame throwing abilities. Unable to control these new volatile powers, Alex accidentally killed his former mentor. Alex soon asserted himself as the new boss of the crime ring. After dissolving the experiments and child trafficking, Alex disappeared from the underground. Taking on a new identity and job as an overseas military mercenary, Alex lived a life of volatility and death. Upon returning to the United States for a break, he met Kaylee Owens praying with people on the streets of LA. Intrigued by her selflessness and compassion, Alex went and talked to her. It was love at first sight. The two would eventually get married. Upon news of his wife's pregnancy, Alex returned from the business and had a change of heart. Alex and his wife eventually became Super Heroes and were recruited by the Tribulation Force.

WEAPONS AND POWERS:

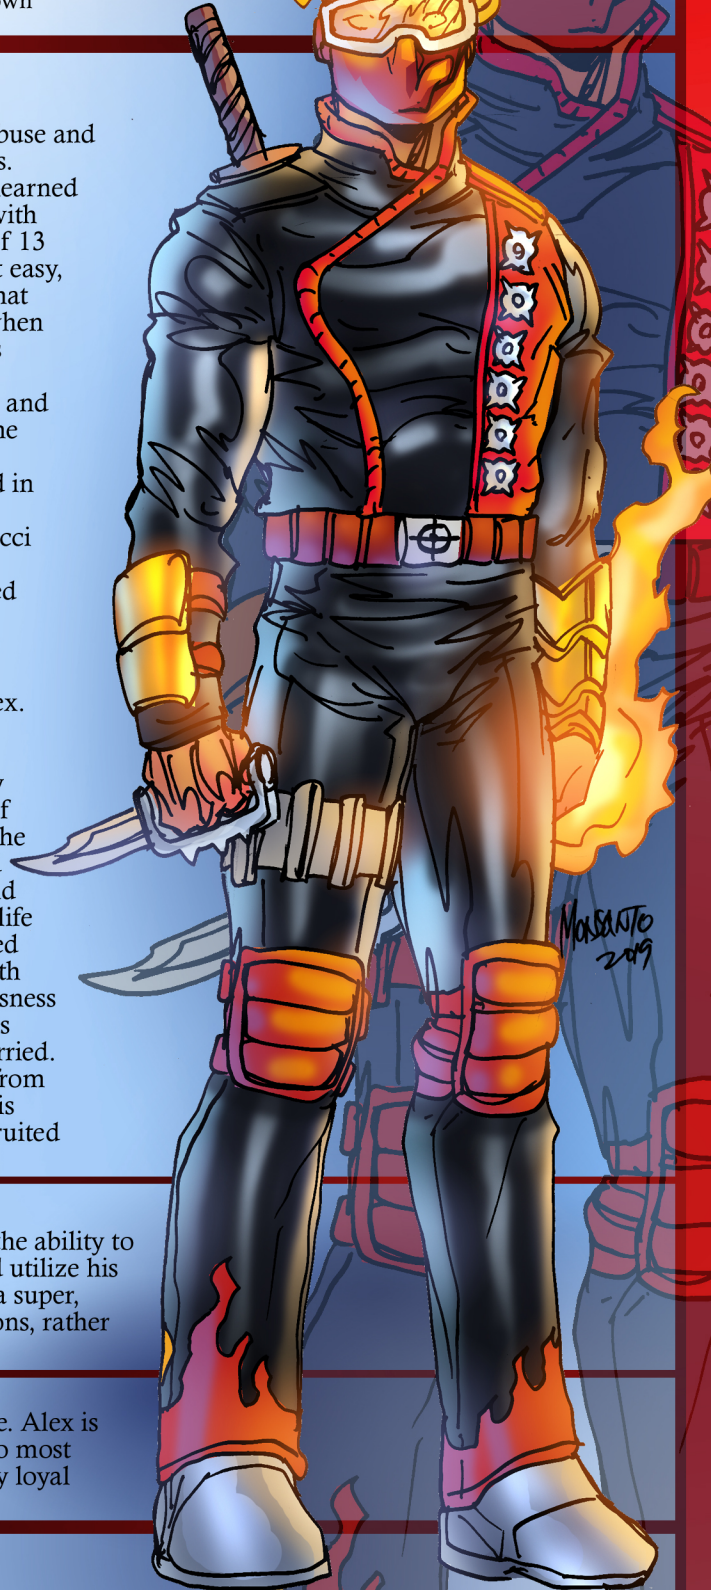

Super powered weapons master. Has the ability to super charge his weapons with fire and utilize his heat based powers. Even though he is a super, Flameshot prefers to stick to his weapons, rather than rely on powers

Personality:

Alex may come off to many as cold and insensitive. Alex is quick witted and usually has a sarcastic response to most situations. When you earn his trust, Alex is fiercely loyal and protective.
